The European Observatory on Health Care Systems is a partnership between the World, the European Investment Bank, the World Bank, the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, and the World Health Organization. This partnership aims to improve the health care systems in Europe by promoting evidence-based policies and strategies. The observatory conducts research, analyzes data, and shares findings to inform decision-making and improve health care delivery across the continent. The partnership is supported by a range of stakeholders, including governments, international organizations, and civil society groups. Through collaborative efforts, the observatory strives to enhance the quality, accessibility, and sustainability of health care systems in Europe. Its work is guided by principles of equity, effectiveness, and efficiency, aiming to achieve better health outcomes for all Europeans.
